Jack:

I am delighted that you can go. I think you will enjoy it, and it will give you a chance to meet some of these people with whom you may have business either now or in the future.

Dear Sam:

This will confirm our telephone conversation today with regard to the Charlottesville conference for the Executive Officers Group on 25-27 June. I regret very much that I shall be out of town and shall not be able to attend.

I appreciate the opportunity to have an Agency representative at these important and most interesting conferences. Mr. John W. Coffey, our Assistant Deputy Director for Support, will substitute for me. Jack is an extremely broad-gauged administrator, and his duties here encompass most of the activities which are generally found in the duties of members of our group. I am sure that he will benefit greatly from the conference, and I hope that he will also make some contribution to it.

Sincerely,

/s/ L. K. White
